Towards Better Together

The Patji Kurnu Constructions Joint Venture (PKC JV) represents a powerful convergence of cultural leadership and technical excellence, bringing together the Yandruwandha Yawarrawarrka Traditional Land Owners Aboriginal Corporation (YYTLOAC) and Platinum Civil Group in a 50/50 Aboriginal-led partnership.

This joint venture is uniquely positioned to deliver high-quality civil, environmental, and rehabilitation services across Santos' Cooper Basin operations.

At the core of PKC JV's delivery model is the proven capability and experience of Platinum Civil Group, a Supply Nation-certified Aboriginal business with an established reputation for delivering complex civil works across South Australia.

Platinum's team brings more than a decade of experience working across mining, infrastructure, and regional development projects including significant scopes for clients such as BHP where they have demonstrated the ability to mobilise rapidly, operate safely in remote environments, and achieve high standards of environmental compliance.

Through PKC JV, this technical expertise is transferred directly into oil and gas operations with a clear focus on supporting Santos' site closure, rehabilitation, and civil maintenance programs.

Platinum's skilled workforce, engineering resources, and systems infrastructure underpin the JV's operational readiness, while YYTLOAC's cultural authority ensures delivery is grounded in respect for Country, community, and compliance with native title obligations.

This capability statement outlines how PKC JV leverages this combined strength to offer Santos a responsive, culturally safe, and technically competent partner capable of delivering the required scope and contributing meaningfully to local employment, economic development, and the broader legacy of Traditional Owner participation in the sector.
